Here's a sneak peek inside the book:

“" Judy Moody and her friends were planning the ultimate April Fools' Day prank on their teacher, Mr. Todd. They had been brainstorming ideas for weeks, and they finally had the perfect plan.

On the morning of April Fools' Day, Judy and her friends arrived at school early and set up their prank. They put a whoopee cushion on Mr. Todd's chair, they filled his desk with silly string, and they even put a fake spider in his lunch bag.

When Mr. Todd walked into the classroom, he was completely surprised. He couldn't believe that his students had pulled such a prank on him. But instead of being angry, Mr. Todd started to laugh. He thought Judy and her friends' prank was hilarious.”

Judy Moody and her friends were so relieved that Mr. Todd had taken their prank in good humor. They had been worried that he would be angry, but they were glad that he had been able to laugh at himself.

But then, the prank went a little too far. Judy and her friends had forgotten to put the whoopee cushion away, and when Mr. Todd sat down in his chair, he let out a loud fart. The whole class started laughing, and Mr. Todd couldn't help but laugh too.

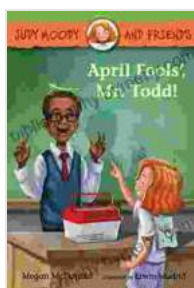

But then, Mr. Todd started to feel a little embarrassed. He realized that the prank had gone too far, and he didn't want to embarrass himself any further.

Judy and her friends realized that they had made a mistake. They didn't mean to embarrass Mr. Todd, and they felt bad that they had hurt his feelings.

Judy and her friends decided to apologize to Mr. Todd. They told him that they were sorry for the prank, and that they didn't mean to embarrass him. Mr. Todd accepted their apology, and he told them that he still thought they were funny.

Judy and her friends learned a valuable lesson that day. They learned that even the best pranks can have unintended consequences. They also learned that it's important to apologize when you make a mistake.

April Fools, Mr. Todd! is a funny and heartwarming story about the importance of friendship and forgiveness.
