Humble Beginnings

Milton Snavely Hershey was born in 1857 in a small town in Pennsylvania. His family was poor, and he had to work hard from a young age. He began his career as an apprentice candy maker at the age of 14. After several failed ventures, Hershey finally struck gold in 1894 when he developed a new process for making chocolate.

The Hershey Empire

Hershey's chocolate quickly became popular, and he soon founded the Hershey Chocolate Company. The company grew rapidly, and by the early 1900s, Hershey was one of the richest men in the world. He used his wealth to build a vast empire, which included factories, hotels, and the famous Hersheypark amusement park.

Utopian Dreams

Hershey was more than just a successful businessman. He was also a visionary philanthropist who dreamed of creating a utopian community for his employees and the people of Hershey. In 1909, he founded the Milton Hershey School, a residential school for orphaned and underprivileged children. He also built a town for his employees, which he called Hershey, Pennsylvania.

Hershey's utopian vision was not without its challenges. He was a demanding boss, and he often clashed with his employees and the people of Hershey. However, he was also a generous and compassionate man who genuinely cared for the well-being of others.

Legacy

Milton Hershey died in 1945, but his legacy lives on. The Hershey Chocolate Company is still one of the largest chocolate manufacturers in the world, and Hershey, Pennsylvania, is a thriving community. The Milton Hershey School continues to provide a life-changing education for thousands of underprivileged children.
