Muddy the Little Pig was a very happy pig. He loved to play in the mud, roll in the mud, and eat mud. He was the muddiest pig in the whole world.

One day, Muddy was playing in the mud when he met a new friend. The new friend was a little lamb named Wooly. Wooly was very clean and white. He didn't like to get dirty.

"Hello," said Muddy. "My name is Muddy."

"Hello," said Wooly. "My name is Wooly. What are you ng?"

"I'm playing in the mud," said Muddy. "It's fun."

"It looks messy," said Wooly.

"It is messy," said Muddy. "But it's fun."

Wooly watched Muddy play in the mud for a while. He started to think that it looked like fun. He decided to try it.

Wooly stepped into the mud. He started to play. He rolled around in the mud. He splashed in the mud. He even ate some mud.

Wooly was having so much fun that he forgot all about being clean. He was as muddy as Muddy.

Muddy and Wooly played in the mud for hours. They had so much fun that they didn't want to stop.

Finally, it was time for Wooly to go home. He said goodbye to Muddy and promised to come back and play again soon.

Muddy watched Wooly go. He was sad to see him go, but he knew that they would have more fun adventures together soon.

Muddy the Little Pig is a heartwarming tale of friendship and adventure. It teaches children about the importance of being yourself, accepting others for who they are, and having fun.
