The Sound of Wings is a powerful and moving novel that explores the themes of love, loss, and redemption. Set against the backdrop of the Holocaust, the novel tells the story of two sisters who are separated during the war and must find their way back to each other.

The novel opens with the two sisters, Anya and Sonia, living in a small village in Poland. They are close in age and have a strong bond. However, when the war breaks out, their lives are torn apart. Anya is taken to a concentration camp, while Sonia is forced to flee her home.

The novel follows the two sisters as they try to survive the war. Anya endures unimaginable horrors in the concentration camp, but she never gives up hope of seeing her sister again. Sonia, meanwhile, travels across Europe, trying to find Anya and stay alive.

The Sound of Wings is a beautifully written and deeply moving novel. Batya Gur's prose is lyrical and evocative, and she brings the characters and their experiences to life with great skill. The novel is a powerful reminder of the horrors of the Holocaust, but it is also a story of hope and redemption.
